When compostable materials like food scraps, paper, and plant trimmings break down in landfills they produce methane, a potent greenhouse gas that contributes to climate change.

California state law (SB 1383) requires that compostable materials be kept out of landfills. In Alameda County StopWaste passed the Organics Reduction & Recycling Ordinance (ORRO) to help residents and businesses comply with the regulations set by SB 1383.

The ORRO is implemented through a partnership between StopWaste, the City of San Leandro, ACI, and the Alameda County Environmental Health Department.

Placing food scraps in the compost bin instead of the garbage helps fight climate change.
